PRICE TWO CENTS

NAME ANDERSON IN FIRST DISTRICT; SAM RASK CHOICE

Lanesboro Congressman Defeats Former Secretary Ola Levang by About Four to One

RASK WINS BY ABOUT 450 VOTES

Former La Crosse Man May Represent Waseca and Steele Counties in Gopher Senate

LAWLER DEFEATS HAMMOND

Leads by 1,435 with More Than 1,000 Precincts Yet to Be Heard From Returns from the first Minnesota congressional district, indicate the renomination of Hon. Sydney Anderson for congress by an overwhelming majority in Tuesday's primaries. Over the long distance telephone at Lanesboro Congressman Anderson said the advice he had received from different counties indicated he had carried every one of the ten counties in the district, the vote standing approximately in the ratio of about four to Anderson for every one cast for Ola Levang, his former secretary, who has opposed him for the nomination.

November Victory Predicted
The splendid victory at the primary presages for Congressman Anderson a re-election to congress in November from the old first district. The progressives practically endorsed Mr. Anderson by failing to make a party nomination for the office. His only opponent at the polls in November will be H. H. Withersone of Rochester.

Former La Crosse Man Wins
Sam A. Rask, formerly of La Crosse, now cashier of the First National bank at Blooming Prairie, Minn., was nominated for state senator from Waseca and Steele counties, Minn., according to final results today. Mr. Rask defeated his nearest opponent by 45 votes.

Mr. Rask, although long a resident of La Crosse, is a native of Houston county, Minn. He was born in 1874 on a farm in Wilmington township, his parents moving to La Crosse in 1886. Mr. Rask passed through the graded and high schools of La Crosse, graduating from the latter institution in 1892. For two years he taught school, and then returned to the city and entered a local bank as messenger.

In Spanish War
When the Spanish war broke out, Mr. Rask was one of the first to respond to the call for volunteers, serving with two brothers in Company F, Thirtieth Minnesota. Enlisting as a private, he rose to rank of corporal. At the close of the war he accepted the post of bookkeeper at the newly organized bank in Blooming Prairie.

Four years ago Mr. Rask ran against Senator T. E. Cashman, a redoubtable opponent, and lost by a narrow margin, the city of Owatonna giving Cashman just enough votes to carry him through. Latest totals of returns from Tuesday's primary election in Minnesota show Daniel W. Lawler of St. Paul, leading W. S. Hammond by 1,435 votes for the democratic gubernatorial nomination. There are over a thousand precincts yet to be heard from and these may change Lawler's lead. The latest total on the vote for the republican nomination gives Governor Elbert H. 68,726; William E. Lee, 76,274. J. A. A. Burnquist has a lead of 9,707 votes over Elias Steenerson for the republican nomination for lieutenant governor.

To Run For Congress
Congressional nominations follow: First district—Republican, Sydney Anderson, Lanesboro; democrat, H. H. Withersone, Rochester.

DYNAMITE TRAIN AHEAD OF CZAR

Anarchist Attempt Made to Exterminate Whole Royal Family of Russia

CZARINA PROSTRATED BY FEAR

Reported to Have Collapsed When Told of Family's Narrow Escape

BERLIN, June 18.—Two persons were killed and 28 injured in an anarchist attempt to exterminate the Czar of Russia and his entire family near Kasatin, according to official statements of Russian authorities printed here today in the Berliner Gazette. The official account of the attempt makes an effort to dismiss it as a wreck.

The Czar and his whole family were near death. With the Czarina and their children, the Russian ruler and his entourage left Kishineff in two special trains. An ordinary passenger train preceded the royal coaches, according to the usual custom when a Russian emperor takes his life in his hand to journey across his empire.

Near Tschudnow a terrific explosion overturned the engine and derailed the coaches of the passenger train.

Immediately the news of the explosion was telegraphed to Kasatin and the Czar's two trains were held there while secret police and Cossacks from the Czar's guard were rushed on a special train to the scene of the attempted assassination. No arrests, so far as known, were made.

Terror which for years is known to have made the life of the czarina almost a constant nightmare, is reported to have caused her utter collapse when the fact of the narrow escape from death was communicated to her.

Today the czarina is reported secluded in St. Petersburg.

PANIC IS AVERTED

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., June 18.—Small boys yelled "Fire!" outside the school building here while closing exercises were being held. Prompt action by grown visitors averted a panic.

FORMER SENATOR DIES

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 18.—Former United States Senator Frank Hiscok died suddenly at his home here today.

VILLA PATCHES UP HIS QUARREL WITH CARRANZA

Is Given Back Supreme Command of the Mexican Rebel Forces

NATERA WILL WORK UNDER VILLA

"Pancho" Will Be Chief in Immediate Attack Upon Zapatistas

OCCASIONED NO EXCITEMENT

No Second Revolution Begun When Villa Seized Carranza Offices

EL PASO, Texas, June 18.—General Villa and General Venustiano Carranza have "made up," and Villa will have his armed strength before Zacatecas and begin the attack with himself in supreme command not later than Saturday night, according to dispatches here today. The breach between Villa and the "first chief" apparently has been healed as suddenly as it manifested itself. Villa has evidently had his way and his control of the constitutionalists troops in the field has been recognized by Carranza.

Recognizes Carranza
The Torreón dispatches say Villa has announced that he still recognizes Carranza as "first chief" of the revolution and that the sudden shake-up of Tuesday night "had no political significance but was merely the carrying out of a plan to do away with many petty annoyances growing out of jealousies of political rivalry and hero worship."

Robert V. Pesquiera, Carranza's personal representative on the border, gives it as his personal opinion that the ousting of Carranzistas from minor offices in Chihuahua is a purely local or state matter and will not have the effect of creating a breach between Villa and Carranza. There was an utter lack of excitement in Juarez today.

Rumors that former Carranza office holders had been executed at Zamacata, a way station 40 miles south, find few believers, even among the most ardent Carranzistas men.

No Excitement
Americans arriving today from Ciudad Chihuahua say the change of government there was accepted with very little flurry.

A message from Saltillo, where General Carranza's capital has been established, says that while Carranza has not acted on General Villa's resignation tendered by wire last Thursday, he still has the matter under discussion, and will call a conference of leaders to consider the situation.

Villa's army will participate in the coming Zacatecas attack with Villa superseding General Panfil Natera in chief command. The inference is that Carranza has agreed to this plan. General Natera is expected to report to Villa during the campaign.

During the past few days Villa has secured large quantities of arms and ammunition, presumably from the supply landed at Tampico a week ago. If that is true, it is evidence that Carranza and Villa cannot now be very far apart. The ammunition must have come through Carranza's territory.

Plagues Washington
WASHINGTON, June 18.—Villa's "demonstration of force" is believed by officials here to have clarified the Mexican situation. It shows the military control of the constitutionalist cause. It means, it is believed here, that the succession to the Huerta regime will be a military rule.

Ever since Villa unqualifiedly endorsed the United States, on the heels of Carranza's hostile demand that this country withdraw from Vera Cruz, the stock of the "fighting general" has been quoted high in confidential government circles. Should Villa succeed in his reported plan of elevating General Felipe Angeles to the first chieftainship, it will please officials here. Angeles is a great soldier, a liberal in his views, and is known to be friendly to the United States.

MAGNATE TO PEN

KALAMAZOO, Mich., June 18.—Accompanied by his wife who will reside near the prison until his sentence is complete, Victor L. Palmer, for years regarded as one of Michigan's biggest business men, left here today for Fort Leavenworth to start service of a two year term. Palmer was recently convicted of using the mails to defraud.

LITTLE HURTGEN BOY IS CALLED AWAY

Howard, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. P. Hurtgen, 820 South Sixth street, died at the family residence at 10 o'clock last night. Owing to the prevalence of smallpox in the family, the burial occurred quietly at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Catholic cemetery. Rev. Father Robert Congdon performed the service at the grave.

U. S. ADMITS THAT MEDIATION MEET MAY BE FUTILE

White House for the First Time Loses Something of Confident Optimism

MEXICANS MAKE SERIOUS CHARGE

Abandon Further Argument and Make Public Reasons for Deadlock

U. S. REPLY EXPECTED TODAY

Lamar and Lehmann Work Until Early Morning Drafting Answer

WASHINGTON, June 18.—For the first time since the Mexican negotiations actually were begun it was admitted at the White house today that there exists a possibility of their failure. Hope has not been abandoned, but the fact that the Huertista delegates had explained their side of the negotiation deadlock was admitted to be extremely unfavorable.

The statement explaining why the Huerta envoys are determined not to agree to the appointment of a Carranzist as provisional president was received here in a dispatch from Niagara Falls, in which Emilio Rabasa, head of the Mexican delegation, explains the difficulties his faction sees in agreement on the plan insisted upon by the United States.

Rabasa's Statement
Senior Rabasa said: "There is no reason for further concealment of the difference which has arisen between the American and Mexican delegations, to which the press has already referred, over the provisional government for Mexico which is at present under consideration."

"The Mexican delegation, adopting a principle advanced by the mediating plenipotentiaries, agreed to the designation as provisional president of a neutral. The American delegation submitted its plan based on the condition that the provisional president shall be a constitutionalist, a condition which the Mexican delegation flatly rejected."

"In a country unused to electoral functions, such as Mexico, provisional government composed of revolutionaries and with revolutionaries in authority throughout the country would turn the elections as it wished; the public vote would be falsified and the result necessarily would be the election of another revolutionary."

"If the nation is with Carranza, as the American delegation claims it is, it will elect him without the necessity of tainting his triumph with either fraud or violence or the charge of the fruit of foreign intervention, accusations which public opinion will always make against it."

"Carranza elected by the nation under a neutral provisional government would command the respect due to the person who incarnates the nation's will, whereas elected under a government purposely imposed as the result of any action of the Washington government he would always be regarded as a traitor."

U. S. Reply Awaited
NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 18.—The mediation pot has boiled over. With the Mexicans publicly charging that the insistence of the United States that a constitutionalist be named is "tantamount to abetting and even exacting fraud and violence at the elections," the reply of the United States was to be given out today.

Until 2 a. m. Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann labored in the preparation of a memorandum, but word was awaited from Washington as to the exact form the public statement should take. The United States takes the stand that it is necessary to install a constitutionalist as provisional president in order to prevent further bloodshed.

PUNISHED ENOUGH COURT DROPS CASE

Maintaining that the punishment he received was all that he deserved, Judge Edward Cronin this morning dismissed the charge of fighting preferred against "Bullhead" Fred Luedke by the police.

Gust Tonke, his opponent in the fist fight, was also discharged on the ground that he had "done the natural thing."

Tonke and Luedke met in a saloon, say the police. Luedke, after imbibing freely, made a slighting remark regarding Tonke's sister.

The fight started, and Tonke got the better of it. Luedke's face this morning looked like it had been run through a meat grinder.

EVERYONE INVITED TO ATTEND INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION HEARING

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the council chamber at the city hall, the Wisconsin industrial commission will conduct a hearing, the purpose of which will be to secure information which may be valuable in determining the minimum wage to be established at La Crosse.

The commission is desirous of having it understood that no one will be subpoenaed.

While the meeting tomorrow is under the auspices of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club, the commission is anxious to hear testimony and opinions from retailers, workers and people interested in sociological conditions.

The hearings are to be public.

MONDAY NIGHT SET FOR LICENSE MEET

Council Committee Will Quiz Saloonkeepers Before Putting O. K. on Application

WEHRER MAY ASK FOR LICENSE

Man "Blacklisted" by Retail Liquor Dealers' Association May Put Up Fight for Permit

Monday night, June 22, has been set by Chairman Frank Kohn of the council license committee as the date for the hearing by the committee of the 150 applications for retail liquor license.

There are eighteen new saloonmen on this year's list. They will be fully instructed by the committee on the law governing saloons and warned that any infraction will be punished by revocation of license.

Mr. Kohn says there are few complaints against saloons this year. Whether or not Fred Wehrer, proprietor of the Wisconsin House, will apply for a license has not been learned. Mr. Wehrer was one of two saloonmen whose applications the Retail Liquor Dealers' association recommended be denied.

It is claimed that Mr. Wehrer is content, applying and if refused may sue the council to compel the granting of the license.

It is pointed out that he was tried on a charge of excessive law violation and acquitted by a jury.

The council, no matter what its opinion, say his friends, has no right to deny him a license because of the alleged offense of which he was found innocent in court.

Mr. Wahrer is not a member of the liquor men's organization.

FOUR ARE HONORED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 18.—Secretary of Agriculture Houston; Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, chief justice of Canada; Arthur Prentice Rugg, chief justice of the Massachusetts supreme judicial court, and Argentine Ambassador Naon, were the only four to receive the honorary degree of doctor of law at Harvard's commencement today.

Ambassador Naon, who is one of the mediators, was similarly honored at Yale. The college gave 45 degrees; the law school about 15 and the medical school about 100.

COOKING LIGHTENS TERM

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 18.—Because Ben Black is an artist at making beef stew, he will serve one year in the local jail for petty larceny instead of a year in the state penitentiary as a burglar.

"I'm a cook," said Ben, after pleading guilty to burglary.

"They need a cook at the county jail to make stew for the prisoners," said Judge Ryan. "We'll change your plea to petty larceny and give you a year in jail."

CREWS PRACTICE HARD

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 18.—Crews out for morning work today were somewhat handicapped by a choppy water, caused by a brisk breeze sweeping over the river.

Stiff practice work was given, beginning with tests in starts and sprints, and ending long races. The Pennsylvania and Washington crews continued their long tests of the past few days.

WELCOMES DIVORCE

NEW YORK, June 18.—"I'm delighted to meet you, under the circumstances," said Gail Borden, multi-millionaire, today when Deputy Sheriff Julius Watson served the "condensed milk king" with a summons to defend a divorce suit brought in the California superior court by Mrs. Helen M. Borden.

ROW OVER MONEY; TWO MEN ARRESTED

George Wall and J. P. McGee are being held by the police pending the straightening out of a tangle involving a pocketbook and a small amount of change.

The men were found fighting in a box car at Second street and Cameron avenue last night.

Wall claimed McGee had robbed him. A pocketbook, which Wall claims is his, was in McGee's pocket. McGee claims Wall gave it to him.

Both were intoxicated.

CO-OP PLANT FIRST IN UNITED STATES OPENS HERE TODAY

Chryst with Deep Feeling Writes of Sacred Obligation to Make Institution Succeed

JUDGE FARRELL FIRST PATRON

Delivers Loads of Prime Hogs and Receives First "Co-op" Pork Check in United States

READY FOR THE BIG BUSINESS

Manager Boyd Has Cars of Hogs Coming Following "Turn Over" of Personal Property Today

When the Farmers' Co-operative Packing Company of La Crosse opened its doors for business this morning Judge James Farrell, La Crosse, was at the yards with three loads of prime hogs. They were purchased at the top market price for the day, and the first check ever issued in the United States by a co-operative packing plant was drawn in favor of and delivered to JAMES FARRELL. It bore the style of the new company, and was signed by Andrew Boyd, MANAGER.

Several cars of hogs were started for the packing plant by telegram as soon as the details of the sale were concluded this morning.

The appraisal of the personal property was concluded yesterday, and when it officially became the property of the new company today the process of "turning over the plant" was completed.

"The Farmers' Co-operative Packing Company is ready to handle all the business it can reach," said Manager Boyd this morning. "I will pay the top of the market on all grades of hogs and other meat animals. Its products will enter the markets in condition to successfully compete with the very best products of the very best packing establishments in the country."

A paragraph from a letter received this morning by Manager Boyd from Ira M. J. Chryst, president of the American Society of Equity, also president of the new co-operative company, congratulates La Crosse upon the opening of the new plant, and adds:

"The livestock producing and meat packing agencies of the country, as well as the consumers of the nation, are watching this enterprise with interest varying according to their personal interests. The people expect much of it, and upon us who are charged with its operation, rests an important duty and a sacred trust. If we succeed the meat business will be revolutionized, to the advantage of both farmer and consumer; if we succeed co-operation will become as great a factor in the meat business as it is now in the dairy business. The American Society of Equity, its officers and the officers and stockholders of the Farmers' Co-operative Packing Company of La Crosse, pledge themselves to devote and conscientious effort to the end that the undertaking shall prove a boon to mankind."

WEATHER

Forecast for La Crosse and vicinity: Unsettled tonight and Friday with probably local showers; no decided change in temperature.

For Wisconsin: Partly cloudy to showers.

For Minnesota: Unsettled weather tonight and Friday; probably local showers; cooler northeast portion tonight.

Weather Conditions

Fair weather prevails this morning in the Atlantic states and west of the Rocky mountain states and unsettled weather from the Canadian northwest to the Mississippi valley with rain in eastern North Dakota and eastern Iowa.

The rainfall of the past 24 hours has been confined generally to the gulf states, Iowa and the Canadian northwest.

The temperature changes have been small but it is generally slightly higher east of the Rocky mountains. The highest temperature reported yesterday was 102 degrees at Phoenix and 96 degrees at Medicine Hat.

An area of low pressure central in western North Dakota will cause unsettled weather in this section tonight and Friday with probably showers. There will be no decided change in temperature.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

Deaf and Dumb Della

By MOLLY McMASTER

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Della was neither deaf nor dumb. She possessed however, a great lack of concentration which was beginning to annoy her as well as her friends.

"You positively make me tired, Della," her best girl friend had remarked. "I have to repeat everything I say to you and it is simply because your wits are wool-gathering and you fail to pay attention to what people say."

"Genius," Della had laughingly told her. "I must be a real genius." "If you are," the disgruntled friend had added, "you have no other earmarks except absentmindedness. If you wrote weird tales, painted pictures or did anything else to distinguish yourself from the rest of us ordinary mortals you would have a right to make people repeat all their sallies to your unheeding ear—but you don't."

At the time Della laughed, but somehow it really had hurt her to know that she was fast becoming a dreamer who did nothing. The habit of meditating and living among the clouds was getting on the nerves of her friends.

"I need concentration," mused Della, "and I need it badly if I am to retain my friends."

In consequence, Della found herself reflecting on ways and means for acquiring concentration. She was not anxious to try the accepted method of sitting down and keeping her gaze fixed interminably at a black disk; it was neither exciting nor appealing to her. Neither did she care to go about, as she had been doing, with a mind fixed on one special thing in order to practice concentration.

"I will assume an affliction," thought Della, "and try to keep it on my mind. I hope, however, I won't make myself have anything in consequence. The mind is a powerful agent in these matters." She pondered on the ailments she might assume without damage to her physical being and decided that to be deaf and dumb would take much control of thought and yet she could not bring upon herself the affliction in reality. Therefore she decided to be deaf and dumb.

It would be a trifle difficult because Della was rather fond of talking. "I will have to change my boarding house," she mused, "and go where no one knows me."

She gave notice that very day and looked up another room, where she hoped there would be plenty of people on whom she could experiment. "I hope they will not be too awfully interesting," sighed Della. "It will be dreadful to sit at a table full of laughing, gabbling people and be unable to join them."

The place she found was certainly filled with congenial boarders. When Della first took her place at the table her new ideas were on the verge of falling from her but she resolutely remembered the remarks of her friends and determined to acquire concentration. The landlady with whom she had arranged for her room by letter received her in the dining room and introduced her to the other guests. Della smiled her delightful smile to one and all and sat down. It was difficult, even from the start, to bring a look of blankness into her face. With all the joyful conversation to which she tried to turn a deaf ear, going on, she found herself constantly on the verge of speaking and caught herself just in time to save the situation. When the very handsome man at her right side offered her the bread, Della had to use all her command in order not to thank him. She did, however, nod, and send another smile into his eyes.

The looks of pity and the surreptitious glances she received sent over her an almost hysterical desire to laugh and give herself away completely.

She was concentrating with all her power when the man beside her turned to the man on the other side and said under his breath: "Isn't she a peach? I would like to have a wife who could be so altogether beautiful and yet one who would not talk from morning until night." He laughed and glanced quickly at Della.

The blush that mounted steadily and surely into Della's face brought a quick light into his eyes. He, however, turned again to the other man and left Della alone to wrestle with her anger and her most becoming blushes. She ate so quickly that she felt a trifle sorry for her digestion, yet it was the only salvation since each moment at the table was becoming unbearable, and she knew that in another few moments she would have joined in the happy chatter and her efforts at concentration would be forever lost.

When she had bowed her excuses silently and hurriedly left the dining room she heaved a sigh of relief. Della realized that the first meal was the most trying ordeal. Her afflictions once firmly established in the minds of the other boarders, her task would prove easy. She wondered just what they were all saying about her now, and especially she pondered on the young man who had sat next to her. She knew that could she but speak she would endeavor to make him sorry for the words he had given utterance to. That way in which she would make him sorry brought a smile to Della's eyes.

"If he fancies me when I am deaf and dumb," she mused, "what could I make him feel—if I wanted to?" Della realized that she was going to want to make him think a great deal. She went to sleep that evening in her new boarding house with first-hand odds.

MOTION TO QUASH ENTERED BY OWEN

MADISON, Wis., June 18.—Attorney General Owen appeared before the supreme court yesterday afternoon and entered a motion to quash the alternative writ of mandamus issued from the court and intended to compel the erection of new buildings at the Stout manual training school, Menominee. Chief Justice Winslow said the attorney general would have twenty days to file a complete answer and the case would be placed on the first assignment at the fall term. Attorneys John A. Aylward and M. B. Olbrich of this city represented the Stout institution.

ANDERSON NOT CALLED.

QUEBEC, June 18.—Admission that Captain Anderson of the collier Storstad, which sank the liner Empress of Ireland in the St. Lawrence, with the loss of more than 1,000 lives, was not called to the bridge of his ship "until the mischief was done," was drawn from Chief Officer Tuffenes of the Storstad here today in the royal inquiry into the disaster. "I did not think there was any danger," was Tuffenes' excuse.

SAVE MAN'S LIFE.

MILWAUKEE, June 18.—Employees of the Globe hotel this morning saved the life of H. G. Davis, Buffalo traveling man, when, smelling gas in the hallway, they entered his room to find him stretched unconscious on the floor. The gas is supposed to have been turned on accidentally.

WHITE TO MEET YOAKUM

DENVER, a Col., June 18.—Arrangements were completed today for the bout here July 14 between Charley White, conqueror of Willie Ritchie and Stanley Yoakum, known locally as "the Human Gorilla." The two lightweights will box 20 rounds to a decision. Yoakum's admirers are asking odds.

FIND MISSING MAN

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 18.—"Jack" Taylor, missing chief witness for Carl E. Person, labor editor under indictment for killing Tony Musser, at Clinton, Ill., is working as a railroad section foreman at Davenport, Iowa, according to Mrs. Taylor, who with her five children are inmates of the McLean county farm here.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel
 Bachachy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases. Daddy's Bedtime

The Butterfly
 Story — Who Loved
 Seeing the Sun.

DADDY had seen a little boy that day who had told him how he collected cocoons and chrysalides and watched them grow into beautiful butterflies.

"How would you like to hear about a butterfly who was delighted to see the sun?" asked daddy.

"We would love to hear the story," quickly responded Evelyn.

"But, daddy," said Jack, "don't butterflies always love the sun?"

"I presume they do. Certainly they always seem to love it, but this butterfly was unusually pleased. He was seeing the sun for the first time."

"I saw a little boy today named Robert who has a collection of cocoons. He keeps them on little twigs in a great big box punched full of holes."

"Then he waits to see them come out. After they have come out he never kills them or tries to keep them, for he thinks that is dreadfully cruel. He knows well that they love to see the sun and be out in the fresh air among the flowers, and he wouldn't deprive them of all that pleasure for anything."

"But one day about a week ago out from a cocoon came the most beautiful pale blue butterfly Robert had ever seen."

"He at once took it out of the box, and off it flew into the warm sun's rays and lighted upon a small bush which was covered with plum blossoms."

"And Robert said that it was so much more fun to see these lovely butterflies happy over their entrance into the world than to see them cruelly cooped up or without any life."

"Before long the insect had spied some other butterflies and had evidently made them as enthusiastic as it was, for a large number of butterflies hovered around the plum bush, and it seemed to be the leader of them all. The butterfly was so happy with the plum blossoms, the birds singing and the warm sun pouring down on the nodding flowers that it had to have some little companions to share its happiness with."

"Robert said he could not understand how any boy would rather see a butterfly die than to see it alive and enjoying life."

"The butterfly acted as if it thought, 'Well, this may be my first party, but it certainly won't be my last.'"

"The other butterflies acted just as if they thought the same way about it, as they had only been out in the world for a very short time."

"But you can just imagine how fine it is for the butterflies to wake up and to have all the parties they can have in the different sweet buds and flowers. And the flowers bob about as if they liked parties too."

Off It Flew Into the Warm Sun's Rays.

RUN IN GUNS TO UPHOLD HOME RULE

American Rifles and Ammunition Reported Landed on Wild Coast of Connemara

TULLAMORE, Ireland, June 18.—Rifles and ammunition from America for the upholding of Home rule in Ireland if Ulster's contumacious makes force necessary, were reported to the police here today to have been landed in huge quantities along the Connemara coast within the last twenty-four hours. Strict search for the arms was started in the region today by heavy details of the royal Irish constabulary.

Reports from coast guards to the authorities here were that the gun-runners landed the war munitions in one of the many rugged coves which line the Connemara shore just as in former days the smugglers landed their contraband. The ship was said to have been met by a large command of nationalist volunteers which received the rifles at dead of night and hurried them off to places of concealment.

SHOOT HOME WRECKER

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 18.—"He came between me and my husband and then turned me down," was the reason given today by Mrs. Myrtle Gibbons, who late last night shot and killed Elroy R. Smith, wealthy "movie" house owner.

Mrs. Gibbons reported to the police, giving them first word of the crime. Mrs. Gibbons' husband recently sued Mr. Smith for $10,000 for alienating Mrs. Gibbons' affections. Mrs. Smith obtained a divorce and $20,000 alimony.

PATTERSON TO RUN

DENVER, Col., June 18.—Thomas M. Patterson, of Denver, former United States senator, today announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for governor of Colorado.

deep concentration marking her thoughts. Her concentration plans boded ill for the heart of her male table companion.

During the following day Della found herself enjoying her self-inflicted malady. Certainly it was amusing to hear the comments of people. Oftentimes she blushed so swiftly, that a look of alarm entered the face of the person who had made a remark about her, and often anger kindled in her eyes or a look of amusement lingered there.

She was on the landing of the boarding house and would have entered her room one evening about ten days after her arrival when a laughing voice stopped her.

"I say, Miss Ransom, when you want to feed the sparrows on your window sill don't forget to chirp at them. I love to hear you in the early morning."

The man who sat next to her at the table was standing there laughing.

Della would have turned angrily away, but somehow anger was impossible and her astonishment only increased the man's amusement.

"I have known from the start," he went on. "The night I remarked about your beauty and you blushed so divinely."

"You had no right to talk about me," Della spoke quickly, and it must be confessed that her own voice sounded well to her own longing ears. "I am practicing concentration and now you have spoiled it all." She laughed in spite of herself.

"No," contradicted the man. "It will help you wonderfully to concentrate on me and to realize, every minute of the day, that I am the only person in the whole world to whom you can speak and that my voice is the only one that you can hear."

His voice was serious though his eyes laughed. There was something rather tense about the situation, although Della tried to feel amused. She drew a deep breath. "It would be rather delightful," she found herself saying softly, lest any one else in the house hear her voice and give away the secret.

The man's face lighted wonderfully and Della realized that she had accomplished her mission of making him love her in no small degree.

"And you won't speak to any one but the birds and me for?" he paused, while Della tried to control the color that was creeping with unusual warmth into her cheeks.

"Well, until you speak to some dear old minister and tell him—"

"That I have learned to concentrate on one—person," laughed Della.

"Yes," whispered the man, "but you must tell it to me in other words first and many times."

LITTLE M'GOVERN

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

From editorial comments by the state press upon the candidacy of Governor McGovern, we gather that the announcement of the governor's long known aspiration to sit in the United States senate is not being received with any degree of enthusiasm.

Governor McGovern has run his race. He made a fair run until he turned bull moose at the Chicago convention; then he made a "bloom-in' awss" of himself in the Ekern matter and wholly failed to make good during his second term in the state house.

McGovern is a back number as far as politics is concerned. He might join the ranks of the down-and-out politicians and go to work for a living.—Racine Journal-News.

A "RUN FOR THE MONEY"

An Ohio newspaper recently published the following editorial:

Wisconsin farmers are getting more for their money than any group of taxpayers we know. They are getting a government which is clean, efficient, forward stepping and with very little waste; and they are prospering under it as they never prospered before.

If Wisconsin were to go back to the old order, under which the pockets of the people were picked by the corporations indirectly, the direct taxes might be lower, but the net cost would be very much higher.

Surely there is enough intelligence in Wisconsin to see this.

Americans have made a fetish of indirect taxation.

"Anything to get by" has been the slogan of our taxgatherers.

The principle is vicious.

When the tax is direct you watch it closely, as you should. When it is disguised, you are generally double taxed and double crossed at the same time.

We once heard a smart man say, exultingly: "I don't pay any tax; I live in a rented house."

He was smart in other things, but on taxation he had been beautifully uncooled; for of course he paid taxes concealed in rent—and nobody knows how much the landlord added by way of extra.

We would like to see, in a great free state like Wisconsin, pace-maker of American progress, a show-down campaign on this matter of open or secret taxation.

WITHOUT "AN AXE TO GRIND"

The local socialists recently adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, the social democratic party seeks to give more of the wealth produced to the working class, and

Whereas, a good example to this end can be had through paying those in public service wages that are in accord with the increased cost of living and working them reasonable hours, that these men may have time to spend with their families, and

Whereas, our city firemen are worked the longest hours, therefore be it

Resolved, that we, members of Local 1, La Crosse, of the social democratic party, demand that our city officials establish the two platoon system of service, in accordance with the advance of other cities, in our fire department.

There is an interesting fact in connection with the passage of these resolutions. It is the fact that the appeal is not for socialism, but for humanity and the "square deal" in general. So far as we know there is not a single socialist in the fire department. The socialists were conscious of men working under burdensome conditions, and protested, that is all. Disinterested and public spirited, to say the least!

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

Additional evidence is at hand that Amos Pinchot did begin his work when he read George W. Perkins out of the bull moose party because of the latter's trust to preserve the trusts and give these outlaws of industry and commerce a legal status.

We quote from the current number of the "Outlook," of which Col. T. Roosevelt is associate editor:

It confronts great industrial organizations. It does not believe in making the government strong enough to regulate such organizations and compel them to deal justly with the people. It therefore endeavors to disorganize these business organizations and convert each one of them into two or more competing rivals. Business is disorganized because it is the avowed policy of the present democratic administration to disorganize business.

Mexico is torn by contending factions neither of which recognizes the necessary conditions of peace or the modern laws of war.

Not only did Roosevelt go all the way with Perkins, but the above editorial in his magazine is evidence that, like Perkins, he stands pat and declines to recant.

It was to join this party for the perpetuation of the trusts that Governor McGovern, pledged to La Follette, bolted to the bull moose leader's support in the republican national convention.

When along the street they scurry, And he yells at her to hurry,

When he's fifteen feet ahead, And no useless words are said;

When conversation's scrappy, And her replies are snappy;

When he pauses to relate, "Drat it, Maud, you're always late!"

When at every corner crossing There is pulling, hauling, bossing;

When he looks slightly peeved And when she looks slightly

Just because they are in haste And they have no time to waste—

You can safely bet they're married.

Wanted Realism

In a recent play the stage manager staged a meadow with chewing gum and cold cure and cigarette ads on every rock and tree and fence.

"Hold, hold," said the star, "Ads in our meadow scene! That's carrying commercialism a bit too far."

"Commercialism nothing," said the stage manager. "I'm a realist, I am, and I want that meadow to look like a genuine one."

A small boy had been given a penny with a hole in it. He spent it for a doughnut. The salesman in due course objected.

"See, here, bub, this penny has a hole in it."

"So has the doughnut," was the grinning reply.

One is Farther Off

A story is told of a sailor who decided to walk from Newport to Cardiff. He met a cart driver and asked:

"How far is it from Newport to Cardiff?"

"Twelve miles, mister," was the reply.

"Thankee," said Pat. "An' how far is it from Cardiff to Newport?"

Driver—Didn't I tell you how far it was from Newport to Cardiff? Do you suppose it is any farther the other way back?"

Irishman—Sure and I don't know. I know it is a great deal farther from New Year's day to Christmas than from Christmas to New Year's day.

MRS. WINN'S ADVICE TO WOMEN

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be Restored to Health.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The doctors told me I would never be a mother. Every month the pains were so bad that I could not bear my weight on one foot. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had not finished the first bottle when I felt greatly relieved and I took it until it made me sound and well, and I now have two fine baby girls. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for what it has done for me. I always speak a word in favor of your medicine to other women who suffer when I have an opportunity."—Mrs. H. T. WINN, 1225 Fremont Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Read What Another Woman Says:

Cumming, Ga.—"I tell some suffering woman every day of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it has done for me. I could not eat or sleep, had a bad stomach and was in misery all the time. I could not do my housework or walk any distance without suffering great pain. I tried doctors' medicines and different patent medicines but failed to get relief. My husband brought home your Vegetable Compound and in two weeks I could eat anything, could sleep like a healthy baby, and walk a long distance without feeling tired. I can highly recommend your Vegetable Compound to women who suffer as I did, and you are at liberty to use this letter."—Mrs. CHARLIE BAGLEY, R. 3, Cumming, Ga.

Mrs. Hazeldell Knapp Hastings.

"Relatives can spoil anything," declared Hazeldell Knapp Hastings in a San Francisco jail the other day, after explaining that she had jilted a wealthy nobleman in Chicago to become the second wife of her first cousin, Edward B. Hastings of Walterlee, N. Y. The charge was made that Knapp had not been divorced from his first wife, who is living, and the couple were arrested on a bigamy charge. The second Mrs. Hastings says her family were pestered because she wouldn't marry a nobleman, and accordingly caused the arrest of Hastings and herself.

SNUBS TITLE, WEDS COUSIN; BIGAMY, JAIL

Marshall has been taken to his bed," said he. "And just when I would have sworn that we had reached the end of the fever."

I had thought this, too, for there had not been a death in almost a week, and many of the sick were convalescing.

"I will see if he wants for aught," I said, and turned back from the gate.

Marshall's hut was hard by the president's quarters, but I had never set foot inside it. The door stood open now, and pausing before it I saw that Marshall was stretched on his bed. As my shadow fell across the threshold, he rose to his elbow.

"Oh, it's you, Farraday," he said as he dropped back.

"Do you stand in any need?" I asked, entering the place.

"Thank you, no," he answered civilly, but briefly.

I marvelled at the great neatness of that small interior. The dirt floor was nicely swept, and Marshall had fashioned a bed for himself by planting a stout post near the centre of his hut, this gave support to two poles reaching in the chinks in the logs, and upon this rude frame was stretched a canvas; there was also a stool that he had made, and a table of clapboards, and opposite his bed stood his chest.

"You are well housed," I said, for the neatness of the place made it wonderfully pleasant after the foul hovels in which most of the men were content to live; aye, and to die, too, for the matter of that.

"This kennel will do till a better offers," he said quietly, then after a moment's silence, he asked: "How fares his good majesty Smith?" for he would not give over his jesting about my good friend.

"Better; the fever has all but left him," I said.

"Good. For he is a fellow of parts, and since Gosnold is dead, the only one in the Council worth more than a spilt fig."

"You are not alone in that opinion."

"I daresay."

"I will come again," I said, preparing to take my leave.

"As you wish, Mr. Farraday," but he seemed only desirous to be rid of me.

Coming back at the noon hour I found him no better, so I brought him his portion from the common kitchen, with such extra dainties as I could beg for him. I know not why I had the feeling for him I surely had, unless that he seemed a link binding me to the Maxwells, and so to Mary. At nightfall I found him somewhat worse; he was tossing to and fro on his bed with his eyes like coals of fire. He hardly knew of my presence, for I heard him mutter over and over as he tossed.

"What a life—God, what a life!"

It was plain he was too sick to be left entirely alone, someone must needs stay by his side to give him the physic Mr. Watton had left, so I constituted myself his nurse; but he was past nursing much heed to me, his wandering fancy being busy with concerns in which I had no part.

I sat down by the door of the hut. Early as it was our camp was very still, if one excepted an occasional burst of laughter which came from the open door of Wingfield's quarters hard by, where he and his companions were holding their revels. I marvelled that they durst for very fear make this showing of indifference to the suffering that was everywhere, that had emptied half the tents and huts.

"Did all your boys turn out well, Jim?" asked one of them.

"Yes, indeed, they did."

"What's Albert doing?"

"He's trying to discover a new germ," replied the father.

"And Bob?"

"Oh, Bob is tryin' his hand at a newspaper an' bein' editor," was the old gentleman's reply.

"And Charlie—what's he at?"

"He's an actor. All the time talkin' about elevatin' the stage."

"And what are you doing, Jim, now that all your boys are away?" asked the old friend.

"Well," answered the old man, "I'm a supportin' of Albert an' Bob an' Charlie."

The Great New Historical Romance

John O' Jamestown

By VAUGHN KESTER

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

John Smith was sick all through August. He might perhaps have recovered a measure of his strength more speedily had he taken greater care of himself; but each time he got a little the mastery of his disorder his great energy and the need there was caused him to join us at our work of grave digging and guard duty, the only two labours we were now able to perform, being so sadly reduced in numbers. This sooner or later would send him back to his quarters and under the surgeon's care; yet such was his spirit that he kept his bed never more than a day or two at a time; indeed, I know not how much blood Master Watton took from him in those weeks, but he owned himself it was enough to have killed a well man.

I have said that I was not sick this terrible summer, but to say that I was wholly well would be wide of the mark. As I dragged myself about the fort I was conscious of a growing rage for our president, who had taken such good care of himself that the fever had passed him by to strike down better men. In spite of the dire necessity, he kept so close a watch on his private stores that no sick man of the company could be benefited by them, for he would neither give nor sell; only Captain Kendall and some few others no better than himself got a taste of them.

Yet, as John Smith truly said, it was no small dishonor to be counted Wingfield's friend. For consider, with men dying all about him from sheer starvation, this precious knave with his boon companions could be heard carousing night after night; I wonder now that for very madness we did not cut their throats for them!

This while I had been thrown much with the tall fellow Marshall, for he was one of those who succumbed neither to the river water nor the starving; but for all we toiled side by side, I could not say I had made any progress toward better acquaintance; he desired, and would admit of no intimacy, holding resolutely aloof from me. I speculated much concerning him, for it was plain he was far above the rank in which he served the Company; that despite the evil fortune which had brought him into his present pass, he was still a gentleman born and bred.

But though the fever had spared him during July and August, he at last fell a victim to it. One morning early in September, as I was going about the fort, I was stopped by our surgeon.

"Marshall has been taken to his bed," said he. "And just when I would have sworn that we had reached the end of the fever."

I had thought this, too, for there had not been a death in almost a week, and many of the sick were convalescing.

"I will see if he wants for aught," I said, and turned back from the gate.

"You are not alone in that opinion."

"I daresay."

"I will come again," I said, preparing to take my leave.

The Great New Historical Romance

John O' Jamestown

By VAUGHN KESTER

Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

John Smith was sick all through August. He might perhaps have recovered a measure of his strength more speedily had he taken greater care of himself; but each time he got a little the mastery of his disorder his great energy and the need there was caused him to join us at our work of grave digging and guard duty, the only two labours we were now able to perform, being so sadly reduced in numbers. This sooner or later would send him back to his quarters and under the surgeon's care; yet such was his spirit that he kept his bed never more than a day or two at a time; indeed, I know not how much blood Master Watton took from him in those weeks, but he owned himself it was enough to have killed a well man.

I have said that I was not sick this terrible summer, but to say that I was wholly well would be wide of the mark. As I dragged myself about the fort I was conscious of a growing rage for our president, who had taken such good care of himself that the fever had passed him by to strike down better men. In spite of the dire necessity, he kept so close a watch on his private stores that no sick man of the company could be benefited by them, for he would neither give nor sell; only Captain Kendall and some few others no better than himself got a taste of them.

Yet, as John Smith truly said, it was no small dishonor to be counted Wingfield's friend. For consider, with men dying all about him from sheer starvation, this precious knave with his boon companions could be heard carousing night after night; I wonder now that for very madness we did not cut their throats for them!

This while I had been thrown much with the tall fellow Marshall, for he was one of those who succumbed neither to the river water nor the starving; but for all we toiled side by side, I could not say I had made any progress toward better acquaintance; he desired, and would admit of no intimacy, holding resolutely aloof from me. I speculated much concerning him, for it was plain he was far above the rank in which he served the Company; that despite the evil fortune which had brought him into his present pass, he was still a gentleman born and bred.

But though the fever had spared him during July and August, he at last fell a victim to it. One morning early in September, as I was going about the fort, I was stopped by our surgeon.

"Marshall has been taken to his bed," said he. "And just when I would have sworn that we had reached the end of the fever."

I had thought this, too, for there had not been a death in almost a week, and many of the sick were convalescing.

"I will see if he wants for aught," I said, and turned back from the gate.

Marshall's hut was hard by the president's quarters, but I had never set foot inside it. The door stood open now, and pausing before it I saw that Marshall was stretched on his bed. As my shadow fell across the threshold, he rose to his elbow.

"Oh, it's you, Farraday," he said as he dropped back.

"Do you stand in any need?" I asked, entering the place.

"Thank you, no," he answered civilly, but briefly.

I marvelled at the great neatness of that small interior. The dirt floor was nicely swept, and Marshall had fashioned a bed for himself by planting a stout post near the centre of his hut, this gave support to two poles reaching in the chinks in the logs, and upon this rude frame was stretched a canvas; there was also a stool that he had made, and a table of clapboards, and opposite his bed stood his chest.

SAYS OCCUPATION HURTS INDEPENDENTS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—J. A. Ownby, as the representative of the independent operators of the Colorado coal fields, today asked President Wilson to remove troops from the Colorado strike zone. Ownby told the president that a gross injustice is being done the small coal men. The regulation compelling the mine owners to refrain from importing strike breakers, is, in his opinion, an injustice.

The president promised to consider the protest.

"The Colorado Fuel and Iron company, the Victor, the American Fuel and the Rocky Mountain company," Ownby said, "are producing from 40 to 45 per cent of their total. They have strikebreakers on the ground and they are filling orders."

ASKS PARDON FOR DESERTING SPOUSE

Mrs. Allen Thrall of La Crosse has applied to Governor McGovern for a pardon for her husband, who is confined in the penitentiary at Waupun for desertion of his wife two years ago. Thrall was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Brindley last September for desertion of his wife and six children. The governor will hold a hearing the 24th of this month.

HOLD FUNERAL OF MISS FOLEY TODAY

The funeral of Miss Bessie Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Foley, 431 Island street, who died Wednesday afternoon at her home, was held this afternoon at 2:30 from the home. Rev. M. E. Fraser of the Caledonia Street Methodist church officiated. Burial took place in Oak Grove cemetery.

BLOW TORCH IS CAUSE OF BLAZE

A blow torch used by electricians at work on the second floor of the Boyer-Furber furniture store caused a small blaze this morning shortly after 10 o'clock. The men were at work on the wiring in the ceiling of the second floor. The flame of the blow torch ignited the deadening material between the ceiling and the floor of the third story. The fire was extinguished by chemicals.

T. R. CANT ORATE

LONDON, June 18.—A "silent campaign" will be the only sort possible for Colonel Roosevelt when he jumps into the political ring this fall if declarations of a famous specialist, Sir St. Claire Thomson, who examined the Roosevelt speech apparatus here this afternoon are true. Colonel Roosevelt's larynx, the physician said, is in bad shape as the result of his Brazilian fever and it will be impossible for the former president to indulge in any kind of a continued speech-making campaign, certainly not in the open air.

TO THE PUBLIC:

THE State of New York, through its Department of Insurance, has completed the examination of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company which it is required by law to make every three years. The Chief Examiner, in concluding the report, said:

"The treatment by this Company of its policy-holders in the prompt payment of their claims, in the voluntary payment of millions of dollars in bonuses, and in its social welfare work—are features of the Company's business which deserve commendation."

The Superintendent of Insurance, the Hon. William Temple Emmet, in approving the report, wrote an extended review from which we make extracts:

THE COMPANY'S GROWTH AND MANAGEMENT.

"The administrative officers of the Company * * * have so increased the assets of the Company as to make these equal the resources of many states and even nations. They have at the same time steadily cheapened the cost of insurance to policy-holders, both by direct means and by the distribution of bonuses."

(The report shows that the Company has given back $35,367,293 in bonuses to Industrial policy-holders in nineteen years.)

"They have extended the Company's business to such an extent as to bring it into contact now with approximately one-eighth of the population of the United States."

(The number of policies outstanding December 31, 1913, was 13,957,748.)

"That this notable growth has involved no sacrifice of efficiency in the handling of administrative details, but, on the contrary, has been the direct result of constantly increasing efficiency, is shown by the comparatively small losses sustained by the Company in proportion to the large investments made."

ITS POLICY-HOLDERS SATISFIED.

"The fact that the percentage of lapses due to the abandonment of their insurance by policy-holders is constantly decreasing, speaks eloquently to the same effect."

(The lapse ratio of Industrial policies has decreased 31.7 per cent. in eight years.)

"This last mentioned development is perhaps the most convincing evidence which could be offered that the Company's policy-holders are, broadly speaking, very well satisfied indeed with what they get in return for the premiums they pay. A very remarkable showing altogether."

ITS SOCIAL SERVICE.

"This Company waited for no changes in existing law before striking out as a pioneer among insurance companies along the pathway of social service on a huge scale."

"For years it has maintained for its policy-holders a nursing service upon a great scale; this has latterly become a veritable marvel of efficiency and practical helpfulness."

(Metropolitan nurses made 1,127,022 visits to sick policy-holders in 1913, for which the Company paid the bills.)

"Leaving out of consideration the mere numbers of those who have been directly benefited by these activities, I think that the example which the Metropolitan has set to other great business organizations by its early recognition of the new responsibilities attaching to all business enterprises which have attained a certain size, is one of the most beneficial of recent occurrences in the field of American business. For years it has through its publications upon the question of health conservation been serving multitudes of people as a sort of University of beneficial instruction upon this most important subject."

ABREAST OF MODERN THOUGHT.

"This great institution, having so very recently been under our critical scrutiny and presenting so many admirable illustrations of what an efficient and enlightened modern business organization on a large scale can do in the way of keeping abreast of modern thought, seems to be in a position where I may properly use it as an illustration * * * that private initiative and enterprise are at their best still capable of doing the finest possible work in fields from which, latterly, all the talk has been that these agencies should be compelled to retire."

GERMAN MURDERESS BEHEADED WITH MAN

STRASSBURG, Germany, June 18.—Magdalene Wendel, 11 years of age, was a victim of Germany's antiquated mode of capital punishment today. She was beheaded, together with H. Wirth, a laborer, her paramour, for having poisoned the head woman's husband. The headman, according to custom, was attired in full evening dress. As the woman approached the block and saw the dread axe, she fainted with terror, being dragged to her death.

AN ATTRACTIVE ADAPTATION OF THE POPULAR BOLERO

There is something youthful and charming about the bolero that makes it a favorite of the moment. Fashion glances its way. It is popular for both suits and dresses and is being made up in all sorts of materials from spangled net for the evening gown to serge for the street suit.
In this instance, 8410, it forms the bodice of an afternoon frock of blue and black taffeta. This bolero has a kimono top, closes with a single button over a sleeveless guimpe of white organdy. The body of the dress is of midnight blue and the tasseled tie and plaited second tunic are of black. This frock may be copied in size 36, with 5 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.
The practical looking little garment illustrated in 8005 is an apron, but it may easily be made to serve as a frock and a very dainty one too, if fashioned of a sheer cotton or other material suited to children's clothes. The guimpe which accompanies the apron may be omitted when an apron alone is desired. As shown here one of the figured cottons is used and a broad sashing ribbon forms the long hung belt.
For a child of 10, 2 yards of 36-inch material with 1 1/2 yards of the same width for the guimpe, is required.
No. 8410, sizes 34 to 42.
No. 8005, sizes 6 to 12.

CLUBWOMEN END CHICAGO BIENNIAL

More Than 10,000 Try to Crowd Into Hall at the Closing Session to Hear Miss Wilson

CHICAGO, June 18.—Trainloads of clubwomen, delegates to the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, left Chicago today, following adjournment of the convention proper last night.

The new board of directors organized this forenoon and delegates remaining in Chicago spent the day in "sociological pilgrimages," over the city.

Several hundred women who were caught in the crush at the Auditorium last night when a crowd of more than 10,000 tried to hear Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, speak, today found their best gowns torn and badly rumpled. The police had difficulty in restraining the crowd. Several of the speakers were unable to reach the stage.

STEAMERS CRASH IN THE CHANNEL

COWES, England, June 18.—Badly smashed by the Hamburg-American collier Etruria in a night fog, in the English channel, the British coaster Copewood arrived here early today. The captain of the coaster said his vessel was proceeding through the fog at half speed when the collier suddenly loomed over her in the murky and before it was possible to reverse engines the two came together with a resounding crash.

A big hole was torn in the Copewood's hull and much of her bulk was carried away.

The Copewood, which was laden with iron from Gribshy to Newport, was smashed on the port side. The hole in her hull was almost entirely above the water line.

DENY SHIP IS AGROUND

LONDON, June 18.—False reports that the Hamburg-American liner Imperator was ashore on the Isle of Wight, caused great uneasiness here until the company issued official denial explaining that the liner was still in Southampton harbor.

MORE PUPILS IN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Annual Report of Principal Sutherland Shows Enrollment of 933

The largest number of students in its history enjoyed the benefits of La Crosse industrial schools during the past two semesters, according to the annual report of Principal Thomas G. Sutherland, made public today. The report shows that there were 933 pupils in the four different branches of the school.

Instruction was given in three schools, the Longfellow school, the High school and the Logan school on the north side.

Next to the evening school, in which 705 students of both sexes were enrolled, the "day permit" school shows the largest enrollment for the year, having a total of 217, 84 of whom were boys.

There were thirty-five classes in thirteen subjects, taught by twenty teachers. The subjects taught were: Bookkeeping, cooking, English for foreigners, business English, dressmaking, mechanical drawing, millinery, mathematics, penmanship, typewriting, shorthand, plain sewing and woodworking.

ATTEMPT MADE TO COVER TESTIMONY

Alleged that Damaging Witness in Shipwreck Probe Was Ordered to Leave

QUEBEC, June 18.—Charges that officials of the Canadian Pacific railway, owners of the liner Empress of Ireland, had attempted to spirit out of Canada James Galway, an important witness of the disaster which cost 1,022 lives, were made here today before the royal commission investigating the horror.

Charles S. Haight, chief counsel for the collier Stordstad, which cut down the Empress, testified that Galway, quartermaster of the Empress, declared he had knowledge that the steering gear of the Empress was in bad shape.

Haight said Galway told him that the C. P. R. did not desire he should give this testimony to the court and that the officials of the road had sought to return him to England.

Attacking the story of Captain Kendall of the Empress, Haight declared that the pilot, the navigators and men of the steamer Alden, bound up the St. Lawrence three hours before the collision, had passed and nearly collided with the Empress. This was in flat contradiction of Captain Kendall's story, he having sworn that no steamer was passed.

ALEPPO WINS GOLD CUP

ASCOT, England, June 18.—J. Fairie's Aleppo this afternoon won the coveted Gold Cup race from a field of ten starters. J. Ryan's Willbrook was second and Junior, belonging to T. Martins, ran third. The race was worth $2,500 with $17,000 additional in specie. The king and queen attended.

Fred C. Beisel, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beisel, 811 Vine street, ensign on the U. S. Battleship Missouri, was married yesterday in Philadelphia, Pa., to Miss Mary Cunningham, daughter of a prominent eastern family.

Ensign Beisel is on a four months' leave of absence. They left, immediately after the ceremony, for a trip through the eastern mountains. They will return to La Crosse to visit Mr. Beisel's parents before he reports for duty.

HEAD CAMP WINS TEST OF STRENGTH

Talbot Ruling Seating the Iowa Delegates Is Sustained 225 to 131 at Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 18.—The ruling of Head Council Talbot that 180 contested Iowa delegates were entitled to seats in the Modern Woodmen of America convention, was sustained by a vote of 225 to 131 this afternoon. Votes were cast only by those delegates whose seats were not contested.

A report of the credentials committee, seating all uncontested delegates and others against whom contests had been withdrawn, was adopted by a vote of 233 to 125. The convention adjourned at 1:15 until 8 o'clock tonight.

"If we don't get a square deal from the administration leaders on the floor, we'll make yesterday's demonstration seem as mild as a lamb, in comparison," said insurgent leader J. K. Beghtal of Hastings, Neb.

The insurgents were today promoting an active campaign for the election of E. C. Smith of Springfield, Ill., as head consul. Smith, an attorney, has a large following.

DAMAGE BY RUST REPORTED SMALL

Nebraska Wheat Crop to Average from Twenty to Thirty Bushels to Acre

LINCOLN, Neb., June 18.—Damage by rust to the Nebraska wheat crop is only slight, according to reports reaching grain men here from representatives of threshing machine companies, who have just completed a tour of investigation of the wheat belt. Had the past few days been hot instead of quite cool, following heavy rains, the result would have been serious.

With the exception of a small strip in southwestern Nebraska, the entire state has good rains and a bumper wheat crop is now practically certain. A strip in the southwest about ten miles wide and a hundred long has suffered from drought, and it is estimated that the yield there will be from seven to twelve bushels per acre. In other localities, grain men say, a conservative estimate of the yield is from twenty to thirty bushels.

PYTHIAN SISTERS ELECT OFFICERS

The 1915 meeting will be held at Racine.

TIMLIN FLAYS EUGENIC LAW

Supreme Justice Agrees It Is Constitutional but Ridicules Its Alleged Effectiveness

BARNES ALSO DOUBTS MERITS

In One-line Concurring Opinion Says He Doesn't Agree with All Said in Opinion

MADISON, Wis., June 18.—"The form of the certificate itself is a sort of an insult," says Justice W. H. Timlin of the supreme court, in a concurring opinion in the case involving the so-called eugenics marriage law, which was sustained by the court yesterday. Justice Timlin does not agree fully with all the reasoning in the majority opinion, but takes his greatest exception to the certificate which the physician must sign upon making a satisfactory examination of the male applicant for a marriage license. He refers to this certificate as a "Scotch verdict of 'not proven,'" and he characterizes the statute in all its parts as, in his opinion, "about as silly and obnoxious a piece of legislation as could be devised."

"But the ineffectiveness of the law, or its folly, if it be foolish, or the fact that it was passed in a modern spirit of legislation first and investigating afterwards, is quite remote from the question of its constitutionality," continues Justice Timlin's concurring opinion. "The people must learn to hold their legislators responsible for the enactment of laws which however unwise and absurd are still within the constitutional power of the legislature."

Not "Eugenic" Law
Justice Timlin says that the law often alluded to as the "eugenics marriage law" has little relation to that pseudo science called eugenics.

After tracing at some length the history of the statute, Judge Timlin says:
"For my part I have no sympathy with this statute. I think it tends to discourage marriage rather than to prevent the spread of disease. All experience goes to show that laws making marriage expensive or difficult or subject to objectionable requirements tend to increase illegitimate relations."

Barnes Agrees
Justice John Barnes filed a one-line concurring opinion in which he says:
"I concur in the result, but do not agree with all that is said in the opinion."

MOVIE IDOL AT CASINO TONIGHT

La Crosse women will tonight have an opportunity of seeing the man in action who was selected as the most popular movie actor in the business by the women of the United States.

Francis X. Bushman, approved by the fair sex to the extent of more than 1,800,000 votes in the recent popularity contest staged by the "Ladies World," is scheduled to appear at the Casino in "The Shadows" tonight.

The contest which created an immense amount of interest, involved more than five and one-half million votes. To the winner when the leading role in the production of "One Wonderful Night." This picture in which Bush will carry the leading part, will be made in New York City, where he company is now rehearsing.

Some idea of the rivalry for the place of honor, entertained by the actors of the moving picture world, may be gathered from the fact that Bush and other leading actors made a plea for the support of the voters through the advertising columns of high priced magazines.

DAVIS WANTS BOARD TO APPOINT CLERKS

Chairman of County Board Says Clerk Should Hold Office Until He Wants to Quit

COMMISSION FORM IN STATE IS UP

Dunn County Clerk Says It Is Only Question of Time; Highway Commission Represented

The county clerks elected the following officers for the coming year:
Louis F. Shoemaker, Waupaca—President.
S. H. Wood, Baraboo—Vice-president.
Russell Jones, Kenosha—Secretary.
V. P. Rath, Langlade—Treasurer.
Waupaca was chosen as the place for the next meeting.

R. W. Davis, chairman of the county board of supervisors, went on record yesterday as favoring the appointment of county clerks, rather than their election. He also thinks the position should be made practically permanent.

Mr. Davis addressed the county clerks convention, meeting at the court house, on the subject, "The County Clerk and the County Board." "Every county clerk should be permitted to hold office until he is tired of the position," he declared. "Let the county board of supervisors name the clerk."

The Commission Form
Frank Pieper of Dunn county, favors the commission form of government for counties. "It is only a question of time when Wisconsin counties will be governed by commission government," he declared.

"Our board of county supervisors passed a resolution favoring the plan and I see no reason why it should not be successful. The supervisors passed the resolution and if the recommendations were carried out it would throw them out of a job. That speaks a great deal for the measure, in my opinion."

Clerks Don't Like It
The clerks last evening refused to recommend the passage of bills providing for commission form of government in Wisconsin.

A resolution was introduced and after considerable comment the clerks laid it on the table.

Highway Problems
A. R. Hirst, Madison, connected with the state highway commission, discussed at length yesterday afternoon the work of his commission and the state aid plan. He laid special stress on the "force clause," by which a group of property owners can force a township, county and the state to aid in the construction of the roads. Mr. Hirst claims that all the money collected for road purposes goes back into the roads.

"We have as good men for the position of county highway commissioners as it is possible to secure for the salaries paid," he declared. "I am very well satisfied with the work which is being done and I am sure that every county in the state will show a marked improvement over the year 1913 and we have no excuses to offer for our work last year. There is some talk of the abolishment of this commission. It would mean going back four years in the road development of the state. We have done more, a great deal more, in four years than was done in a decade before the commission was organized."

The delegates to the convention enjoyed a launch ride up the river at the close of the afternoon session.

Hull and Donald There
John S. Donald, secretary of state, and Merlin Hull, candidate for governor, were present at the meeting last evening. Both spoke briefly on the value of conventions and offered their assistance in any way possible to the clerks in their work.

Convention Adjourns
Because of the small attendance and because a number of the speakers were not prepared the convention closed last evening and many of the clerks left for their homes in the various parts of the state.

A vote of thanks to the retiring officers, to the citizens of La Crosse, to County Clerk Bert A. Jolivette, and to La Crosse newspapers was taken.

PENNY SCALES ARE FOUND INCORRECT

City Sealer Derr Finds Devices on Streets to Be Many Pounds Off Weight; Condemned

City Sealer E. H. Derr yesterday started the testing of public penny scales—weighing devices found on most corners and in public buildings.

Of twenty tested, eighteen were found to be imperfect and were condemned by the official.

One nickel scale tested was found to be many pounds "off weight." The use of the machines, until they are made accurate, is forbidden.

DECLARES HE WILL DIE FIGHTING

Message to Vienna Says He Will Not Avail Himself of Fleet's Shelter

ROME, June 18.—Desperate fighting at Durrazzo, Albania, for possession of the city, was reported in dispatches received here today. They declared that the remnant of Prince William's army which lost 200 dead, 250 wounded and all its cannon in an attempted advance yesterday against the Mussulman besiegers, was today making a last ditch defense from trenches at the verge of the city. The fall of Durrazzo and the flight or death of Prince William was considered inevitable before night.

VIENNA, June 18.—"Rather than flee, I will die, sword in hand, on the steps of the palace."

This message was received here today from Prince William of Albania, selected by the powers as ruler of that country following the Balkan war. The international fleet in the harbor offers refuge to the prince, but he announced today that he would not avail himself of it. He has a small but loyal garrison.

CLOSING OPENING TIME OF JUBILEE

Best Debater, Student, Athlete and Orator Picked at the Normal School

The last opening exercises at the normal school yesterday morning was a time of jubilation and celebration. Reports were made by the presidents of all of the different organizations, each telling of the work accomplished during the year and the financial standing.

A meeting of the Athletic association was held at the same time. Letters were awarded to all of the men who had won them during the past year. It was also noted that the association is on a much firmer financial basis than it was two months ago.

The different committees of the faculty chosen to determine the best all round student of the school, the best athlete, the best orator and the best debater reported at this assembly.

The best all around student of the school is George Jones of Prairie du Chien. Jones has been one of the best students that ever attended the school. He has taken an active part in all of the school's activities besides his school work and earning part of his way through. In the opinion of the student body a more satisfactory election could not have been made.

Arthur Strum of this city, was chosen as the best all around athlete; Russell Webb of this city, as the best orator, and Frank Kuehl of Fountain City, as the best debater. All of these men were presented with banners. Honorable mention was given to the following people in the selection of the best all around students: Emanuel Haebeich, Curtis Welles, Minnie Helwick, Esther Vik, all of this city, and Isabelle Burns, George Costerisan and Olive Umlinger.

The faculty has also selected Curtis Welles of this city, to act as editor in chief of the Raquet, the official normal paper, for next year.

UNDERTAKERS MEET HERE IN 1915

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., June 18.—A college course in embalming is the desire of the State Embalmers' association as expressed in resolutions at the session here today. The members also ask that undertakers be exempted from jury duty. Oshkosh, La Crosse, Superior and Green Bay are contenders for the next convention.

Local undertakers today denied knowledge of an attempt to bring the next convention to La Crosse.

PASSES EUGENIC TEST; GETS HIS PERMIT; "RENIGS"

A prominent businessman of Birchfield, Wis., traveled to La Crosse three days ago, passed the eugenic marriage test, secured the permit to wed and returned home to claim his bride.

Today he appeared at the clerk's office and demanded his wedding license be revoked.

"It's all off," he told the clerk.

No, gentle reader, we can't give you the names because the county clerk, presuming to be the judge of what should and what shouldn't be printed, refused to divulge them.

All records of the application have been destroyed, he said, and his memory was so short he had forgotten the names.

Edwin Mull, arrested yesterday, together with Alfred Lynn, on suspicion of having been connected with the theft of a watch, was released by the police today. Mull was able to give an alibi. It is probable that Lynn, who was arrested at Portage, will also be freed. He is said to have established the fact that on the day the watch in question was stolen he was in Albert Lea, Minn.

CARD OF THANKS.
We wish to extend our many thanks to our many friends and the Union and City R. R. Co. for their kindness shown during the death and burial of our brother, husband and father. Especially for the floral offerings.
Mrs. Geo. Stedman and Children.
Mr. Walter Stedman, brother.

WARN CITIZENS TO TRIM TREES

Mayor and Park Commissioner This Morning Issue Cleanup Proclamation and Point to Ordinance

MUST BE TEN FEET FROM WALK

Branches Must Be Cut Four Feet Above Height of the Average Pedestrian Says the City Law

Citizens are today warned, in a proclamation issued by Mayor Ori J. Sorensen and Park Commissioner John H. Forrer to trim trees so that the lowest branch is at least ten feet above the sidewalk.

This is demanded under a city ordinance and the city officials announce that they will see that the law is complied with in all sections of the city.

In many parts of the city property owners have permitted branches of shade trees to grow until they touch the heads of pedestrians.

Park Commissioner John H. Forrer, announced today that the weed inspectors this year will be absolutely "on the job"; that noxious weeds will be removed wherever the attention of the department is called to the fact.

The ordinance provides a fine for failure to trim trees.

PAUL LUTZ, SR. GOES TO REWARD

Oldest Business Man in the City with One Exception Dies Last Night

Paul Lutz, Sr., the oldest business man in La Crosse with the exception of George B. Rose, died last night at ten o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Minnie Fay, 511 South Fourth street. The infirmities of old age were the cause of his death.

Mr. Lutz was born in Germany October 10, 1834. He came to this country when a lad of twelve, settling in Milwaukee with his parents. He remained in Milwaukee until his marriage, soon after coming to La Crosse, in 1861. He started here in the fur business, a business in which he was active up to the time of his death.

Surviving him are three children, Joseph of St. Paul, and Paul, Jr., and Mrs. Minnie Fay of La Crosse and one sister, Mrs. Bertha Jehlen of La Crosse. His wife preceded him to the grave four years ago.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at nine o'clock at St. Joseph's cathedral. Rev. G. Shuter will officiate. Burial will take place in the Catholic cemetery.

MORRIS TO SPEAK AT SPARTA FRIDAY

Lieut. Governor to Open Campaign in Western Part of State with Address in Neighboring City

In a speech at Sparta, Wis., Friday night, Lieutenant Governor Tom Morris will open his campaign for the United States senate in the western part of the state.

The Sparta speech will be the keynote in the campaign and great interest is being evinced by residents of that section.

The speech will be delivered at 8 o'clock in Assembly hall.

MRS. SUNDEVAY IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary E. Sundvay, aged 39 years, wife of Louis Sundvay, 127 King street, died this morning at 9 o'clock of intestinal trouble extending over a period of several years. During the past year and a half Mrs. Sundvay was confined to her home.

She is survived by her husband, five children, Hazel of Syracuse, N. Y., and Verna, Vera, Irene and Raymond of La Crosse three brothers, Charles C. Haynes of Minneapolis, Westly Haynes of Abbotford, Wis., and John W. Haynes of Hortonville, Wis., and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Leaser of La Crosse and Mrs. Bertha Stevens of Rushville, Ill.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

POLICE AUTHORITY LIMITED BY LAW

Supreme Court Says Officer Has No Right to Shoot Man Guilty of Misdemeanor

MADISON, Wis., June 18. — The supreme court announces a ruling that an officer of the law is not justified in shooting a person whom he is attempting to arrest on a misdemeanor charge. The question was raised in the case of Adolph Goscinski against Gustav Carlson, an undersheriff of Douglas county. The action was brought to recover damages for an alleged unlawful assault. The plaintiff claimed he was seriously injured by a shot in the back inflicted by the undersheriff and asked $2,500 damages. Carlson said that Goscinski wrongfully resisted the execution of the court process, and that in order to make him submit to authority discharged his revolver without intent to shoot or injure. The jury awarded Goscinski $70 compensatory damages.

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition All Summer

It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the heated term. Mixed with perspiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautifying. Ordinary mercurized wax will do more for the complexion, and without giving an oily, streaked, spotted or pasty appearance. It is the ideal application for the season, as it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of dirt which have been soiled by dirt or weather. By constantly keeping the complexion clear, white, satiny, it does more toward perfecting a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of mercurized wax, obtainable at any drugstore, will completely remove the worst complexion. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning. To keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling or to overcome such condition, there's nothing better than a face bath made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in 1/2 pint witch hazel.

VALUABLE CATTLE ARE TO BE SOLD

Pure Bred Guernseys at West Salem Will Be Put Up at Auction Saturday

Thousands of dollars worth of pure bred Guernsey cattle are to be sold at West Salem Saturday, after the summer meeting of the Western Guernsey Breeders' association, to be held Friday. Some of the best cattle of the state are to be sold at this auction. The Tribune will have a representative at the meeting of the breeders' association Saturday to make a full report of the meeting. Among the speakers are Charles L. Hill, former president of the American Guernsey club; William H. Caldwell, secretary of the organization, and Professor C. P. Norgard, the new superintendent of Farmers' institutes. One of the most interesting sessions ever held by the association is expected.

ONALASKA BOY HURT IN RUNAWAY

Oris Holter Brought to La Crosse Hospital Suffering from Broken Ankle

ONALASKA, Wis., June 18.—Oris Holter of this city, was seriously injured yesterday morning when a horse, he was driving, ran away, throwing him out of the buggy. The unfortunate boy was hurried to a La Crosse hospital, where it was found that his ankle had been broken in three places. While his condition is not considered serious, he is suffering intense pain. Miss Luella Westeraas of Wabasha, Minn., spent Sunday in the city with her parents. The picnic given by the M. E. Sunday school at Myrick park Tuesday was a complete success in every way, weather conditions being ideal for such an outing. Autos conveyed the happy crowd to and from the park. Mrs. T. G. Aiken left Tuesday evening for an extended visit with relatives at Rochester, Minn., and Burke, South Dakota. Frank Hagenbaugh is spending the week with friends at Westby. Miss Clara Shove returned Monday evening from Chicago, where she enjoyed a short visit with relatives. Prof. and Mrs. A. L. Halvorson left this morning for Whitewater, Wis., where they will spend a month with relatives. J. W. Dalton returned Sunday evening from Milwaukee, after spending a week there with relatives. Miss Ferne Aiken left yesterday noon for a short visit with relatives at Rochester, Minn. Mrs. T. F. Shean of Colorado Springs, Col., arrived Tuesday evening for a month's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sjolander.

RESINOL HEALS ITCHING ECZEMA

The Easy Way to Get Rid of Torturing, Unpleasant Skin Eruptions.

If your skin itches and burns with eczema or other tormenting, unsightly skin trouble, simply wash the sore places with Resinol Soap and hot water, dry, and apply a little Resinol Ointment.

The itching stops instantly, you no longer have to dig and scratch, sleep becomes possible, and healing begins at once. That is because the soothing, antiseptic Resinol medication strikes right into the surface, arrests the action of the disease and lets the tortured, inflamed skin rest, almost always restoring it to perfect health—quickly, easily and at little cost.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are also speedily effective in even severe and stubborn cases of pimples, blackheads, dandruff, sores and piles. Prescribed by doctors for over nineteen years, and sold by practically every druggist. For free trial, write to Dept. K.K., Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Don't be deceived by inferior "substitutes."

POISON IN CANDY; WOMAN IS HELD

Mrs. Georgia Burke Simmons.

Mrs. Georgia Burke Simmons of Winslow, Ariz., is under arrest in California charged with having sent poisoned candy through the mail. She is said to be infatuated with William H. Dagg, a married man of Winslow. Recently she went to California on a visit and shortly afterward Mrs. Dagg received a package of candy, with the name of a third woman on the wrapper. The third woman has been exonerated. The candy was full of bichloride of mercury, a deadly poison. Mrs. Simmons says she is innocent.

CHURCH WELCOME FOR HOMECOMERS

St. Paul's Universalist church, the first church in La Crosse to publicly announce compliance with the request of the La Crosse Board of Trade to provide a home coming service for Sunday, June 28, will have a special service on the morning of that date. Rev. Dr. L. Ward Brigham, pastor of St. Paul's Universalist church in Chicago, will deliver the sermon. Dr. Brigham was formerly a student in the Sunday school of the local church. His visit here for the occasion will be his first since he left the city thirty years ago. Dr. Brigham came to the Chicago church the first of the year from All Souls' Church of Brooklyn, where he was pastor for twelve years. Automobiles will be provided by the church to convey aged or infirm people to the church for the morning service.

SOX READY TO FIGHT

BAN JOHNSON SAYS HE WILL PROTECT HIS TEAM AGAINST FED RAIDS IN THE COURTS

CHICAGO, June 18.—The American league is prepared for any fight that the Federals put up, and is ready to stop a raid by the outlaws for the players of the Johnson circuit, according to advices given out at league headquarters yesterday.

Ban Johnson issued the following statement: "We are ready for the outlaws. We can meet them in any kind of fight they put up, and will beat them. We will protect through the courts any players now under contract, and none of the White Sox will jump."

The situation in Chicago is tense. Chase is still reported ready to go to the Buffalo Feds on Saturday, though Ban Johnson denied this story yesterday. It was stated at Comiskey headquarters that the ten day clause would be eliminated from all Sox contracts, and the Chief Johnson decision would be allowed to stop wholesale jumping.

Ray Demmitt has signed with the Buffalo Feds and Rob Russell with the Indianapolis outlaws, according to rumor today, though they may not leave till fall.

Jimmy Archer of the Cubs admitted he was dickering with a Federal club during the day, and had received a contract.

Chairman Gerry Herrmann of the national commission has called a special meeting of that body in New York for Friday night, at which time plans for blocking the raid of the Federals will be laid. The National league will meet at the same time.

The only ray of hope for the organized forces came today when Eddie Collins flatly turned down an offer of Owner Ward to play with the Brooklyn team in the Federal league.

MOORE WINS GOLF TITLE

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., June 18.—Frank Moore of Tulsa, won the state golf championship here yesterday. The tournament was one of the largest ever held in the state.

POLO TOURNAMENT AT KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, June 18.—The sixth annual tournament of the mid-western polo association will be held here next week. Eight teams representing Denver, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, Colorado Springs, Sheridan, Wyo., and the Country club of Kansas City, will compete for the championship of the middle west. The first game will be played Monday at the country club.

MORAN TRAINING HARD

PARIS, June 18.—Frank Moran, the husky Pittsburg who is to meet Jack Johnson here June 27, is working hard out at Butry-sur-Plage, an hour's ride to the north of Paris. Never has a white hope approached a mill with greater outward show of confidence than Moran is displaying now. "Tell 'em all for me," he said to a United Press correspondent, "to put their money on the paleface."

Even the bow-legged man may flatter himself that he has an arch look.

OUMMET IS OFF HIS PLAY AGAIN

PRESTWICK, Scotland, June 18.—Francis Oummet, America's only representative in the British open golf championship, which started here today, was badly off form in the first round of 18 holes. The best he could do was 86—nine over the score he made at Troon, in qualifying for the finals of the match.

WASHBURN ELIMINATED

NEW YORK, June 18.—R. Lindley of California has eliminated Watson M. Washburn, playing through Watson, from the metropolitan lawn tennis championship singles, and will meet George M. Church, Jr., a former intercollegiate champion, today. The winner of this match will meet the winner of the game between F. B. Alexander and Robert Leroy in the final rounds Saturday.

Get up early in the morning and go to work soon after, and your dreams of that night are apt to come true.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN

Faber, White Sox recruit, moved next door to the hall of fame by blanking the mauling Macks, almost without a hit.

Jack Lapp's scratch infield bingle in the ninth was the only safe one the Athletics grabbed.

Matty held the Pirates to five scattered hits and blanked them.

Bunker Hill Day, celebrated at Boston yesterday, found the Cubs shy on war munitions, the Braves winning a double battle.

Four doubles in five times up was the record of Magee of the Phillies, in yesterday's ten round row with the Cards.

By butchering Shaw's offerings, the Naps made a clean sweep of the series with the Griffites.

Hughey Jennings called four heavers to the mound to stop the Yanks, but the Tigers dropped the last game of the series.

Doulass, of the Reds, struck out eleven Dodgers in a ten round pitchers' duel that finally went to Brooklyn.

The White Sox-Athletics encounter attracted 5,000 fans while 1,800 watched the Chicago-Pittsburgh Federal game.

Seventeen bases on balls and four batsmen pined with the ball was the record of the untamed twirlers in the Indianapolis-Buffalo Federal game yesterday.

Baltimore's victory over Kansas City prevented the Chifeds from gliding to the top of the Federal heap.

ROCKFORD TO LOSE FRANCHISE?

ROCKFORD, Ill., June 18.—Unless local games of the Wisconsin-Illinois league ball clubs have a better attendance by July 1 the Rockford franchise is likely to be transferred to Freeport, according to statements of league officials here on Wednesday. The poor showing of the home club and the distance of the ball park from the population center are reasons given for lack of interest.

WILSON ASSISTANT COACH

MADISON, Wis., June 18.—Thomas A. Wilson, a graduate of Princeton in 1912 and football player of that institution, was on Wednesday elected assistant football coach at the University of Wisconsin by the board of regents. He will be chief assistant to Head Coach William J. Juneau. Wilson helped coach at Princeton and last year officiated at the University of North Carolina.

P. A.'s a double header!

Jammed in a jimmy pipe Prince Albert is the best tobacco you or any other citizen ever did fire up!

Rolled into a makin's cigarette Prince Albert will lick the tar out of any other tobacco—bar none—that ever sold across a counter!

Your next move is to prove out this kind of language. Just slip into the next store and get a tidy red tin of the national joy smoke

We staked three years and a fortune to perfect a patented process that produces in Prince Albert the most wonderful pipe and cigarette tobacco ever known! It costs you ten cents to "see"!

Listen: That patented process has absolutely revolutionized the manufacture of smoking tobacco. P. A. can't bite your tongue and it can't parch your throat. All you got to do to get the question off your mind, quick-like, is to try it out and then compare it, puff for puff, with any tobacco you ever smoked or heard about!

Everywhere—tippy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; also handsome pound and half-pound humidor.

What Napoleon Said of Washington.

They would have had me a Wash-ington. The words cost nothing, and surely those who employed them with such facility did so without knowing either times, or places, or men, or things.

If I had been in America I would willingly have been a Washington, and I should have had but little merit, for I do not see how it would have been reasonably possible to do otherwise.

But if Washington had found him-self in France, with disintegration going on within and invasion menaced from without, I would have defied Washington to be himself. If he had tried he would have been nothing but a fool.

Great Shooting.

Smith and Jones were walking along the boulevard one afternoon when Brown was incidentally mentioned in the conversation.

"Speaking of Brown," thoughtfully remarked Jones, "I understand he is something of a shot."

"He is a wonder," was the prompt rejoinder of Smith. "We were out in a field practicing one day when he hit the bulls-eye at the first shot."

"Fine for Brown!" commendingly returned Jones. "Ticked him almost to death, I suppose?"

"Don't you believe it!" answered Smith. "He had to pay for the bull's-eye."

Tea Table Etiquette.

A hundred years or more ago there was a quaint tea table etiquette. I was considered a lack of courtesy to take much cream or sugar in one's tea. Etiquette demanded that the tea should be tasted from the spoon and that the hostess should then inquire, "Is your tea agreeable?" Modern women would be shocked by a fashionable lady of those days who cooled her tea with her breath, yet Young wrote of a certain bewildering Lady Betty:

Her two red lips affected zephyrs blow
To cool the Bohna and inflame the beau,
While one white finger and a thumb conspire
To lift the cup and make the world admire
—London Standard.

Papua Island.

Papua island was so named by the Malays, and the word means "friz-zled," in reference to the hair of the inhabitants. It is generally supposed that Papua or New Guinea was origi-nally part of the mainland of Australia. It was discovered by the Portu-guese in 1526, though it was probab-ly sighted by A. Dabreu during his voy-age fifteen years earlier. The Austro-liau government, realizing the danger that would arise if an enemy seized land so near their coasts, frequently urged England to annex the eastern portion of the island, and after two or three unauthorized annexations British protectorate was established there in 1884.

Inquisitive.

"Your husband is of a studious turn of mind, isn't he?"

"Yes, indeed. Whenever we have hash he isn't satisfied unless he knows everything that is in it."—Detroit Free Press.

A fan's enthusiasm is apt to make him unfair.

Broad Hips make the Feature of the Newest Skirts

By MAY MANTON

SUMMER fashions are really wonderfully alluring and attractive. Gowns are made of such beautiful fabrics, combinations of materials are so unusually attractive and the lines of the gowns themselves are all pretty and becoming. In one way or another, we must be broad across the hips but, since we are allowed a choice of puffs and ruffles, tunics and draperies, there should be no difficulty in producing that effect in the manner adapted to each figure. In this picture are shown five new and fashionable costumes. Each one is distinctively different from the rest yet they all show the one feature. In one costume, a puffed tunic is combined with a waistcoat blouse and both the puffs and the waistcoat are especially worthy of note for they make two of the best and newest features. In the illustration, the gown is made of plain and flowered silks but it is the combination of fancy and plain materials rather than the fabric that makes the smartness and the same idea can be carried out in cotton crepe or any other fashionable material.

Roman stripes are not alone in the height of style, they are very beautiful, for they are to be found in a great variety of colors. The suit that shows them used for the blouse and under tunic is made of the new summer gabardine in a fashionable shade of brown and the stripes repeat the brown as the dominant color.

This is essentially a silk season and moiré effects are found in the summer silks as well as flowered designs and plain colors. The gown that is made of moiré taffeta is trimmed with the same silk in changeable effect and combines a skirt draped in bustle effect with an exceedingly pretty and becoming blouse. The skirt, by the way, is made of one big piece of material, the bustle being formed by judicious handling of plaits and gathers. For the later season and real warm weather, the model would be pretty copied in very light weight summer taffeta showing stripes of black and white and with plain white taffeta for the vest and collar.

Fashionable Costumes for Sea and Shore

BATHING costumes give evidence of the general trend of the season's fashions, and are really most attractive creations. Verily and indeed is the time past and gone when the costume for the dip into the sea or for the sun bath on the beach was something to be hidden from sight. To-day it is just as graceful and pretty and becoming as the gown designed for the popular dance. It may be made from silk or from satin especially made for the purpose and warranted to remain uninjured by any amount of use, or it may be made of mohair of good quality and special advantage, and it may be trimmed with white or with color, made quite simply or really elaborate, as each owner selects for herself. Everything is pretty about the bathing costumes this year. Caps are coquettish and piquant and shoes are shapely and well-fitting, many of them bound around the ankles in the sandal style that is both practical and attractive.

The designs shown on this page are among the best. There is one for the grownups, one for the young girls and small women and one for the little girls, so that all the needs are supplied.

One is made with kimono and two with raglan sleeves, and just stop a minute to think what that means. There is no fitting to be accomplished, and you can make your own suit without the least bit of trouble and with very small expenditure of time. In two of the designs are shown flounces or short peplums over the hips, and of course they are pretty while they are not full enough to interfere with the swimming that makes an important part of the real sea bath. In fact materials in these days are so light

The women's costume is made of black salt water silk, with trimming of white and black braid. The girl's costume is made of salt water satin in dark blue and is trimmed with the same material in sea green banded with blue, and the little girl's suit, which by the way can be worn without the skirt as well as with it, is made of mohair with trimming of taffeta.

Fashion Notes

AN extremely attractive dancing gown of soft silk is made with a narrow skirt overlapped at the front and a half length flaring tunic but is finished at the lower edge with a soft plaited frill of chiffon in matching color. A great many taffeta skirts are made with soft little ruffles at their lower edges and, in almost every way, there is evidence of the coming fullness. That to some extent it will take the form of the circular flounce is probably true but it will also show other variations, and the ruffles and trimmings sound an important note. Little ruffles are seen arranged over narrow skirts, lace flounces and lace ruffles are being put to almost every possible use and, in every way, there is evidence of the width that is to come.

that one is entirely unhampered, and we may go forth clothed attractively and becomingly yet certain of the freedom which every real lover of the sea enjoys.

Each one of these costumes is supplied with bloomers, but all except the little girls' are made with skirt and blouse joined by means of a belt, so that if the bloomers are not liked close-fitting tights can be worn in their stead.

Smart Summer Suits for Little Boys or can take the place of the blouse suit for small boys for general wear but the blouse suit this season has taken on a new form and there are occasions for which the little jacket costume is especially desirable. Linen and galatea are always standbys but a great deal of light weight éponge is used this season, both plain and crepe finished, and, for very hot days, suits are made of linen, chambray, percale and such thin materials.

By MAY MANTON

One of the costumes illustrated shows white galatea with a belt and tie of bright red and it is very pretty and childlike in effect. Next to it is a middie suit with trimmings of Nattier blue and Nattier blue on a white foundation makes a very charming and summerlike effect.

The checked suit is made of crêpe éponge, blue and white, and is trimmed with white bands with blue braid and the jacket suit next to it combines white linen with royal blue, for the bright shades of blue are much used and are exceedingly childlike in effect and altogether attractive.

Box plaited dresses are always becoming to the younger children. One of those illustrated is made with knickerbockers and one without, but they both give long, slender lines that are sure to be becoming. The white frock scalloped with blue is very charming and embroidery in simple designs is being as much used for boys' suits this season as it is for girls' dresses. The scallops make a good finish and are not difficult but a great many mothers also embroider the collar and cuffs with sprays of flowers as well. The little box plaited dress with knickerbockers is made up in a shade of brown that is very fashionable this season and is trimmed with cream color.

Latest Notes from the Fashion Centers

THE flared skirt and the revival of the old-time basque make the two important matters for discussion in the world of dress today. To be sure, neither is aggressive as yet. Both features are held in the background to come as important items later on but both have arrived, nevertheless, and that they will influence the coming styles is true beyond question. Skirts have grown as narrow as well could be and latterly we have developed hip draperies to the fullest possible extent; consequently, the next change must take quite a different form. The newest and latest models show circular flounces variously placed, long full tunics, insets in the seams of the skirt and, in some few instances, the basque that is so reminiscent of an earlier period.

The last is likely to come slowly. We have grown so accustomed to the graceful loose blouse that it is hardly probable that women will take with enthusiasm to such a revival but it is one of the changes chronicled for the future, nevertheless, and one that must be taken into account.

The tendency toward greater width at the edge of the skirt is a more welcome one and likely to be met with enthusiasm and the long tunics or over-skirts are really very pretty and becoming and, at the same time, practical. In fact, there are a great many features of prevailing styles that render them especially adaptable to economy of dress. All sorts and all lengths of tunics are worn. Over-blouses are almost a rage and, since both are made of material differing from the foundation one, they serve admirably for remodelling. The long straight tunics are gathered and plaited and treated in various ways and they are as often of material differing from the skirt as of the same. Altogether Dame Fashion has been a kind friend and, when one remembers how many opportunities are offered in the infinite variety of fabrics, that truth becomes doubly apparent.

We are wearing the most wonderful little capes and cape wraps, too, and there is no garment ever created easier to make or prettier than the cape while some of the little cape wraps are the most coquettish, fascinating little creations possible. For warm weather, they will be made of all sorts of pretty fancy silks, either unlined or with lining of chiffon or mousseline if such lining is desirable; incidentally these linings are used to give the touches of bright color which are so eminently picturesque and which are never used to greater advantage than in just such ways. For evening occasions, the capes will be made of the most beautiful silks and brocades, for daytime use, of simple silks and of broadcloth and the like while, for travelling, motoring and the like, the long practical military cape is given first choice. When one remembers that the cape in some form is apt to be becoming to every woman, its introduction may well be met with enthusiasm. Just now, however, the cape of dressier occasions must be held by a waistcoat or straps or some such attachment, for to be smart it must fall open at the front and give the impression of slipping down from the shoulders, not being held closely about the figure. It flares voluminously and it is altogether a very pretty and attractive garment.

The circular flounces are posed in every possible way. At the moment, those over the hips and a little below the hip line are popular but already the flounce that edges the skirt has been seen and, when once the tendency starts in that direction, it is difficult to know where it will end. For some curious reason or other, the world of fashion is ever the world of unrest.

We are never content, never let things stay as they are. The narrow skirt has only just been developed to its best. As a matter of fact, the circular flounce at the lower edge is only desirable when the skirt is trained. When it must support its own weight, it is apt to sag and to pull out of shape. If the great couturiers urge it upon us, no doubt we will accept it but, while that is true, it is well to look upon it a little askance and to cling to the good things while we have them. The long tunics, both plain and full, give a new line and are apt to be becoming and they continue to give straight lines even while they are distinctly new.

A very charming costume is made of striped blue and white taffeta with a long tunic or over-skirt of plain blue and a bodice that combines the two materials. The skirt is of the almost universal two-piece sort and the tunic is simply gathered at its upper edge terminating about halfway between the knees and the ankles, and is finished with a rather wide flat puffing of the material edged with little frills. The yoke-like portion that forms the upper portions of the sleeves is of the striped silk, the lower portion of the blouse and the main portions of the sleeves of the plain. The neck forms a slight V at the back, a deeper one at the front, and a pretty finish is found in the soft frills of lace which finish the sleeves and fall over the hands.

A DESIGN FOR EMBROIDERING A PLATTER DOILEY 18 x 24 INCHES WIDE.

THE scalloped edge to be padded and button-holed. The flowers, leaves and dots can be worked either solidly or as eyelets. The stems to be outlined. To pad the scallops, work chain stitch between the lines, heavier at the center and lighter at the points; or, cut a skein of thread and apply two or more strands over the center of the stamped pattern, keeping within the lines, tack here and there in couching style, gathering the threads closely at each point of the scallops; then button-hole closely over the foundation.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, June 18.—Trading was dull at the opening today but prices showed a slightly better tendency.
11 a. m.—After a little advance during the first few minutes, the market came to a halt. The fact that the leading stocks had risen to a level slightly above Wednesday's close and succeeded in holding their gains, seemed to indicate a good technical position, although nobody showed an inclination to utilize it.
Noon.—The market was at a standstill during the second hour. Prices did not change and there was practically no business done.
2 p. m.—Not much attraction would have been needed to empty the stock exchange today. Great numbers of brokers left the floor and extreme apathy prevailed.
The stock market closed dull.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, June 18.—Wheat eased off after opening steady today on account of slightly lower Liverpool cables. Toward noon Armour led a buying rally that sent prices a shade higher than last night's close.
Corn was steady and a shade higher at the start on account of light local receipts but general selling followed reports that Argentine corn was being offered in the east caused a loss of 1/4 in July and 1/4c in August.
Oats had a firm undertone from the start and advanced 1/4 to 1/2c in the forenoon. Shorts were covering today.
Provisions were a shade higher today on account of higher hog prices.

MAY BE MEXICO'S TEMPORARY HEAD

Pedro Lascurain, Mexican minister of foreign affairs when Madero was forced to resign, is being mentioned at the Niagara Falls conference as a possible provisional president of the republic to succeed Huerta. It is feared, however, that he would not be accepted by the Constitutionalists.

GLASGOW DOCKS BURN

LOSS OF $500,000 SUSTAINED IN FIRE WHICH IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN OF MILL TANT ORIGIN
GLASGOW, June 18.—Fire destroyed the Kingston docks here today, burning four vessels which lay alongside. The origin of the blaze was not definitely known but indications were that it was started by suffragettes.
The whole land and harbor fighting force of the port made a desperate fight to save the docks, which were filled with goods of great value. Every effort was vain, however, the firemen risking their lives without result. A score were overcome by the smoke.
When the fire was finally under control the loss was estimated at $500,000.

FIRE DESTROYS ENTIRE BLOCK

MOUNT PLEASANT, Iowa, June 18.—Estimates made today place the loss by the fire which swept a city block at 10 o'clock last night at $140,000. For four hours the fire raged until got under control by the local fire department. Starting in the Wilkins bakery, it destroyed the M. C. Hall Lumber company's yard, Christian church, McCaren Piano company building, Wilkins & Warhurst store buildings and residences of Clyde Taylor and O. D. Taylor. Calls for aid were sent to Burlington and Ottumwa, but the request was countermanded when the local firemen got control. Several were injured.
